OCSEA President asks lawmakers to stop divisive campaigns against working families

Statement from Ohio Civil Service Employees Association President Christopher Mabe on introduction of "So-Called Right to Work" legislation:

“Another campaign pitting working families against one another and attacking everyday heroes is not what Ohioans signed up for. It’s deeply disappointing that just two years after a divisive campaign to strip workers of their workplace rights, some politicians continue to try to alienate the vast majority of Ohioans—the middle class. The voters of Ohio have already spoken, and it’s time to move on. ”
