REMEMBERING

SB 5

Fifteen years ago, on June 28, 2011, the People's Parade of about 6,200

Ohioans delivered

the required signatures needed to put the repeal of Senate Bill 5 on the ballot. Also known today as the Million Signature March, labor unions, public workers and supporters from all 88 counties stood together to send a clear message to extreme politicians who supported SB 5.

That included nearly 1.3 million (1,298,301 to be exact) signatures to the Ohio Sec. of State declaring SB 5, the anti-collective bargaining law, was unfair, unsafe and would hurt us all. It took a 40-foot-long semi-truck to deliver the 1,502 boxes of signed petitions.

Labor would go on to repeal SB5 at the polls in November 2011 with an astounding 2.1 million voters turning out to say, "No on Issue 2 to veto SB 5."
